SUMMARY

I am a creative, dedicated and passionate individual studying at Ravensbourne University in London. I have developed excellent creative and academic writing skills through my studies, alongside practical experience in producing digital media.

EDUCATION

Ravensbourne University, London

BA (Hons) Digital Film Production

September 2017 – Present

New College Lanarkshire, Glasgow

Higher National Diploma: Television

August 2015 – June 2017

Pathways to Film and Photography

January 2015 – June 2015

SKILLSET

Highly developed writing skills with experience in creative, marketing and academic works. Very comfortable taking initiative and working alone, but also skilled in supporting others in group work through shared conceptualising, editing and proofreading.

Proficient in many software suites including Microsoft Office (Word, Excel, Outlook, PowerPoint, OneDrive) WordPress, Adobe Creative Cloud (Photoshop, Premiere, After Effects, Audition) and MAGIX creative software (Vegas, SoundForge).

In-depth knowledge of all major social media platforms including Twitter, Facebook, YouTube, Instagram, Snapchat and Reddit.

Experience in managing online platforms and web pages, as well as marketing web content.

Intermediate photographer and videographer, with practical experience in operating Canon, Panasonic, Black Magic, Arri and Neewer brands of camera and lighting equipment.

EXPERIENCE

Ravensbourne Societies

2017 – Present

I am a contributing member of several societies at my university, particularly the documentary and LGBT+ groups, acting as social media manager and event organiser of the latter. My duties involve a process of planning and arranging events, as well as ensuring they are thoroughly marketed to both members and non-members of the society.

The Alpha Project

2016 – 2017

While at New College Lanarkshire, I secured work experience at a local charity which provides support for adults with mental health difficulties and learning disabilities. I worked closely with their staff to help promote the organisation, including the shooting and marketing of promotional videos, in the process of which I interviewed special needs individuals about the support the charity offers them and acquired their testimonials.

Machinima.com

2012 – 2014

Initially a fan of their work, I contacted the online multimedia organisation Machinima.com and began working with them. I collaborated with their content creators, working on web series such as the hit show "Civil Protection", performing duties which included assisting with production planning, copywriting and acting as assistant video editor.

LC Radio

2011

As part of my high school work experience, I joined the local community radio station, LC Radio. This was set up as a voluntary organisation, dedicated to bringing news and entertainment to South Lanarkshire. During this experience, I supported the crew in their daily activities – organising shows, maintaining their schedules, running errands and even guest presenting.

INTERESTS

In my free time, I enjoy watching my favourite television shows and YouTube creators, spending time with friends and travelling. One of my passions is creative writing and I'm currently penning my first novel, which I hope to self-publish in the future.
